

truncation order n controls noncommutativity • fixed seeds, CPU-reproducible commutative monitors are blind to lagged cross-channel drift • an optimal n certifies detectability